Experts for automated test equipment

Digitaltest is a strong partner in the electronics industry and has 35 years of experience in the development, implementation and support of automated test systems for printed circuit boards. Apart from technology and hardware, the complete range of services includes the necessary software for the automation of production as well as quality management software.

For our team Team in California, USA we are looking for a new

Electronic Engineer (Service)

Your responsibilities

− hardware service for our test systems
− calibration of our hardware
− SW Service for our products
− application support

Your Profile

− Background in electronics
− Willingness to travel in America
− Knowledge of ICT, Flying Prober, Functional test
− Basic knowledge in Visual Basic − Team player but also able to work independently

Are you interested?
Then apply - we look forward to getting to know you!
We would be glad to answer any open questions by email: careers@digitaltest.com